DIAGNOS and its exclusive partner, Canamexport, announce the signature of a letter of intent from Latin American optical and ophthalmic chain

Brossard, Quebec, Canada – December 1st, 2010 - DIAGNOS inc. (“DIAGNOS” or “the Corporation”) (TSX Venture: ADK), a leader in the use of artificial intelligence and advanced knowledge-extraction techniques, announced today that it has received a Letter of Intent to commence commercial implementation of CARA from OFTALMOLASER DE MEXICO S.A. DE C.V., (Oftalmolaser), the medical subsidiary of GRUPO DEVLYN, S.A. De C.V., (Devlyn). Devlyn is the largest optical chain in Latin America with over 700 optical outlets and 7 ophthalmic clinics.

The letter of intent culminates a period of clinical evaluation subsequent to a MoU signed earlier this year, and announced on February 4th 2010. “We have worked closely with Oftalmolaser and Grupo Devlyn in 2010 and we are very pleased to have been selected as their diabetic retinopathy screening service provider” said Peter Nowacki, DIAGNOS’ Vice-President - Healthcare

The letter of intent states that Oftalmolaser intends to enter into a formal contract with DIAGNOS in December 2010, order initial cameras before the end of the year, and launch initial CARA-supported diabetic retinopathy screening within their network of 700 optical outlets in January 2011. A number of up to 30 screening locations are planned in 2011.

“Given our commitment as a family and as a business to the health of our communities, we plan to use DIAGNOS’ technology to support our screening for eye diseases at our chain of optical stores, to increase the rate and quality of referrals for treatment in our medical clinics, and ultimately to make a difference in the vision care of 15 million Mexicans with diabetes, 50% of whom are undiagnosed. We are looking forward to working with DIAGNOS and their CARA diabetic retinopathy screening software” said Andrew Devlyn, Grupo Devlyn’s Medical Division Director.
