DIAGNOS receives ISO 9001:2008 and ISO 13485:2003, CMDCAS – Canadian Medical Device Conformity Assessment System Certification

Brossard, Quebec, Canada – November 5th, 2009 - DIAGNOS inc. (“DIAGNOS” or “the Corporation”) (TSX Venture: ADK), a leader in the use of artificial intelligence and advanced knowledge extraction techniques, announces today that it has successfully completed the certification process for internationally recognized quality management standards ISO9001:2008 and ISO13485:2003 for its CARA (Computer Assisted Retinal Analysis) technology. DIAGNOS’ quality management system was audited, assessed and registered by Intertek Testing Services NA Ltd., a CMDCAS (Canadian Medical Devices Conformity Assessment System) recognized registrar as conforming to the above standards.

“We are very pleased with this significant regulatory milestone, and are on-track to commercializing our CARA technology. This certification satisfies a key Health Canada pre-requisite for medical device licensing of our products, and certifies our ability to design and develop, manufacture and service medical software and devices. This certification provides our healthcare customers with an important assurance about the quality of our products, services, and processes” said Peter Nowacki, General Manager at DIAGNOS.

“We are committed to consistently provide products and services that meet client expectations and conform to medical device safety and effectiveness requirements. Our management team assures that the entire Corporation understands and adheres to our quality policy in all aspects of our work, and we are proud of the strength of our quality system and our management processes” said Housseem Ben Tahar, Vice-President - Development, and Quality Officer at DIAGNOS.
